

THE LINAGE CONTINUES

Rufus and Susan Williams produced six sons Ralph, Ned, Albert, Enos, Moses, and Otmar. (See the chart at the bottom of this page.) Four of them – Ned, Albert, Enos, and Ormar - in turn produced a total of seven sons. Clarence, Herman, Earl, Stanley, Warren, Oletus, and Ermil - five men in that generation fathered a total of five sons – Richard E, Hubert, Roger G., Danny, and Gordon. (Warren had twin sons who died at birth.)

Richard had a son Rick who has a son Davis; Hubert has a son Roger A. who has a daughter only; and Roger has a son Kendall who has a son Owen. Danny and Gordon produced no sons.

On June 25, 2006 Roger, Ken, and Owen met at Rick's lovely home high on a hill outside of Tomah, Wisconsin. Rick, a Major in the Army Reserve, is stationed at nearby Ft. McCoy.

Rick and his wife Jackie was most gracious and hospitable hosts. Young Davis and his sister Brianna kept Owen entertained with a toy train set and other items while the adults explored their common heritage and personal life events. They shared a bountiful luncheon and captured the day with photographs. The visit ended all too quickly, but with the expectations that it was only the beginning of a new family tie.
